In the patented process the basic fabric is molecularly modified. This makes the flame retardancy possible without modifying its characteristics. Fabrics of the collection feischee-cotton fr have all advantages of a "good fabric". Ecologically and economically.

The great trade magazine AIT for architects and interior designers honoured the collection feischee-cotton fr which Maasberg presented. According to AIT Maasberg`s collection feischee-cotton fr meets current trends. Together with the jury and trendscouts they are of the opinion: "There has been sufficient plastic all over the world".

Synthetic fibre, plastic and microfiber are not decomposed in nature and for that reason they cause increasing problems. In the meantime about 60 per cent of all fabrics produced contain poly-ester. The cheap synthetic fibre turns out to be a disaster for the oceans.

Textiles made of cotton also because of an ecological responsibility. A renewable resource. Low energy consumption during the production process. Fibre and fabric are completely bio-degradable.
